Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Wednesday 17 Mar 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Mostly dry, but mixed fortunes regarding sunshine on Thursday.

This Evening and Tonight:
Clear spells leading to a chilly night with a touch of frost in places, and odd fog patches in the southwest. Northwestern areas less cold, with low cloud and patchy drizzle, while odd showers may fringe the southeast of England.

Thursday:
Sunshine in places, best across parts of Scotland and western Britain, where it should feel quite warm by afternoon. Turning cloudier with some rain in east and southeast England.

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Some rain at first in the east, otherwise mostly dry but rather cloudy. Feeling warm, especially in any sunshine, but the southeast colder with some overnight frost. Mostly light winds.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.